

INTRODUCTION TO POETRY:
ARTHUR THE BRITON, BRETON, & BRITISH KING
Summer II 2017
ENGL 2305-012, Rm. 310 (MTWRF, 10-11:50 a.m.)

Instructor: Sarah Sprouse

E-mail: sarah.sprouse@ttu.edu

Office: Eng & Phil Rm. 457

Office Hours: Wednesdays, 12:00 p.m. – 1:30 p.m.; Thursday, 1:00 – 2:30 p.m. (and by appointment)

Course Description:

While popular interest in poetry has declined in the last hundred years, King Arthur continues to be a mainstay in our culture. What is it about King Arthur (and his knights!) that fascinates us? Why is he the most enduring and memorable character from the medieval period? What role did he play in the development of poetic form and the clash of cultures in medieval Europe?

We will explore possible answers to all of these questions as we chart Arthur's rise from Welsh bardic poetry to T. S. Eliot's devastating poem "The Waste Land." This vast chronological landscape will give us room to consider the changing cultural expectations of entertainment in its poetic form. In order to conceptualize medieval engagement with poetry as "entertainment," we will engage in a multi-modal approach to our study by looking at manuscript images, listening to recordings of performances, and even performing poetry in class.

This course satisfies the Texas Tech University core curriculum requirement in humanities, contributing to the Competency Statement for the Humanities: "Students graduating from Texas Tech University should be able to think critically and demonstrate an understanding of the possibility of multiple interpretations, cultural contexts, and values."

Required Texts:

Wilhelm, James J., ed. & trans. The Romance of Arthur: An Anthology of Medieval Texts in Translation. Routledge, 2013.

Chretien de Troyes. Perceval, or The Story of the Grail. Ruth Cline, trans. University of Georgia Press, 1985.

Tennyson, Alfred Lord. Idylls of the King. Penguin Classics, 1989.

Eliot, T. S. The Waste Land and Other Poems. Penguin Classics, 2003.

Additional Supplemental Readings will be supplied by the instructor.

Learning Objectives:

The University Catalog states that “the objective of the humanities in a core curriculum is to expand the student’s knowledge of the human condition and human cultures, especially in relation to behaviors, ideas, and values expressed in works of the human imagination and thought. Through study in disciplines such as literature and philosophy, students will engage in critical analysis and develop an appreciation of the humanities as fundamental to the health and survival of any society.” By the end of this course students will be able to:

1. Articulate and evaluate the historical contexts that shaped the development of Arthurian poetry.
2. Differentiate the poetic forms that contribute to region-specific Arthurian poetry and describe them.
3. Interpret and analyze Arthurian poetry from different regions and periods.
4. Develop an appreciation of the entertainment value of Arthurian poetry in its medieval contexts and think creatively about aesthetics of this tradition.
5. Assess the changing Arthurian tradition in the twentieth century.

Learning Assessments:

The objectives listed above will be assessed in the following ways:

1. In-class writing assignments, group-work, short essays, reading log.
2. Group-work, reading quizzes, homework assignments, reading log.
3. In-class writing assignments, class discussion, reading log.
4. Class discussion, creative group project, reading log.
5. Class discussion, in-class writing assignments, group-work, reading log.

Assignments:Grade Distribution:

Participation: 10%

Blackboard Writing Assignments: 10%

Reading Quizzes: 10%

Reading Log:

Reading Log Audit: 10%

Short Essay: 20%

Mock Trial: 20%

Group Project: 20%

Participation: 10%

You will be evaluated on your participation throughout the semester based on work in the following activities:

- Small group discussion
- Full group discussion
- Individual in-class writing
- Bringing required materials (including assigned text, reading log, and notebook/pen for taking notes)

Participation in class discussion means: listening attentively, contributing ideas, asking questions, taking notes, etc. There are many ways to participate, but if you sit in the back of the classroom with headphones, then you are clearly not participating.

If you are not in class, you cannot participate, and your grade will reflect not only your absences but also your reduced participation.

Each class, there are two possible Participation points to be earned:

1. Attendance and preparedness for class
2. Participation in class activities and discussion

Blackboard Writing Assignments: 10%

Each Thursday you will be asked to write a short essay (3-4 paragraphs) on Blackboard. A prompt will be provided and your work will be assessed based on your attention to the prompt and text as well as the clarity of the points you make. You will have 48 hours to respond to the prompt.

Reading Quizzes: 10%

Each day of class there will be a short reading quiz covering basics of the material read for class. At the end of the semester, the worst two quiz grades will be dropped.

Reading Log:

You will be required to maintain a reading log in a separate notebook. Each entry should be marked with Date, Time, and Text Read (including page numbers). In these entries, you should record your impressions, responses, and reflections on the assigned reading as you read. This is the place to note questions and difficulties you have with the assigned text as well as ideas that occur to you as you read. These logs should be helpful to you in the following ways:

- 1) they will help you figure out what you notice when you read (and therefore better understand your own reading practice),
- 2) they will provide you with places to begin during class discussion and remind you of what you read as well as your impressions, and
- 3) it is a low-stakes place to experiment with critical writing.

Your log will be evaluated not for the content of your entries, but for its thoroughness. In other words, you should make an entry each time you read. When reading a difficult poem, I encourage you to read it more than once and make notes of your developing comprehension with each re-reading. You must bring the reading log to class with you in order to be prepared to discuss the readings.

Reading Log Audit: 10%

Due 8/1. The reading log audit will be a short (1-2 pages) report on your reading log as a work in progress. Your report should have the following categories:

Description (A brief description of what your log looks like – How many entries have you written? What is the average length? How many are long or short or in between? How many poems have you written about? What does your log look like?),

Analysis (Discuss the content of your entries: What do you usually talk about in your entries? What elements of poems do you tend to comment on, or what is it that you tend to talk about in your commentaries on the poems? How have your log entries changed over the past few weeks? What might account for differences in the content, length, or quality of your entries? What else do you notice about your entries?), and Reflection (Do you find any worthwhile writing in your entries? What value do you place on this log or on some of its entries? Have you found any reason for keeping a reading log other than because your instructor assigned it? If you were the teacher of this course, would you ask your students to keep a reading log? Why or why not? What do the sample entries you have included show your reader about your reading log?).

In addition to the report, you need to include ten sample entries from your reading log. (You can photocopy these or type them up.) Samples should include entries from the beginning, middle, and end of the semester (at least one entry per course unit).

Short Essay: 10%

Due 7/24. There will be one short essay (4 pages) assigned during the semester. Basic prompts will be provided for these essays, but you must design your own argument based on the parameters provided. These short essays must be thesis-driven, formal pieces of writing that analyze one poem or compare two poems. You can also look at the historical context of a poem and write about the influences you see. You must include a works cited. No outside sources will be permitted. All essays must cover texts read for THIS COURSE. Essays should be in Times New Roman, 12-point font, and double-spaced.

Mock Trial: 20%

In lieu of a final paper or exam, you will conduct a mock trial based on the prompt provided. This mock trial will take place on our final exam day (Friday, August 11, 2017 at 11:00 a.m. – 1:30 p.m.). The class will be divided into three groups: Prosecution, Defense, and Jury/Judge. Groups will be assigned on July 27. Prosecution and Defense will submit on the final day (August 9) of class their Complaint (or Counter-Complaint), Brief, and List of Witnesses. The Jury/Judge group will submit a summative document of all relevant passages in the texts read for the course in order to refamiliarize everyone with possible scenarios and characters to reference in trial. By 7:00 p.m. on the day of the trial (Friday, August 11), the Jury/Judge will submit via e-mail their Decision and Sentencing of the Defendant. The details and rubric for this assignment will be submitted by the end of the first week of class.

Group Project: 20%

The final group project can take a variety of forms, but it must demonstrate your group's critical engagement with one poem read for class this semester. This is a creative project, so you can create: a video dramatically reenacting one of the poems, a website edition of the poem (including character pages, introductions to important scenes, pages for important poetic forms, pages for the historical context, etc.), a Twitter or Facebook rendering of the characters' exchanges in the poem, a dramatic rewrite of a poem, a story written to explain one of the triads, a video reenactment of an important historical event relating to a poem, a video depicting a modern version of the events in a poem, a puppet show reenacting a scene from a narrative poem, set the the poem to music, create a rap out of the poem, etc. How you wish to tackle this project is up to you, but you will need to demonstrate in a Project Prospectus (due 7/26): what poem you are working with, how you are going to visualize or present it for the class, and how it will help you learn something about your chosen poem. Final presentations should be 15-20 minutes. A more detailed rubric will be provided on July 14 with sign-ups for for groups. Presentations of your projects will be on the last day of class (August 9).

Grading Breakdown:

90 – 100 = A

Strong, distinguished work. Student writing is prepared and organized. Student shows clear understanding of the literature and writing technique. Writing is sophisticated and coherent.

80 – 89 = B

Above average, high quality work. Student writing is prepared and organized. Student understands a majority of the literature and writing technique. Writing quality is elementary, but clear. Student is coherent, but could be more sophisticated in his/her argument or writing quality.

70 – 79 = C

Average, passing work. Student meets bare minimum requirements for assignment. Assignment is complete but does not offer much introspection or deep-understanding of the literature. Argument and writing quality are elementary. Writing and organizational errors. Inconsistencies present.

60 – 69 = D

Below average work. Student does not meet the minimum requirements for assignment. Assignment is incomplete and unprepared. Basic understanding of text, but no argument – or vice versa.

0 – 59 = F

Fail. Student shows a very limited understanding of the literature or assignment.

Classroom Decorum & Course Policies:

Submission of Work:

Unless granted special permission, students must type and print all assignments. The ONLY exception is the Final Portfolio, which will be due electronically. Assignments are due on the deadline at the beginning of class. I will not accept submitted materials in any other manner (i.e. via e-mail, under my door, in my box, etc.)

All submitted work MUST follow the standard MLA guidelines. This means: typed, double-spaced pages, 1-inch margins, Times New Roman 12-point font (in black ink), page numbers, and a works cited.

In order to pass this class, you MUST submit all required assignments.

Late Work:

Late work will only be accepted in extreme emergency situations. In emergency situations, students may e-mail me about submitting an assignment late, but must make specific arrangements for that submission; however, for each calendar day that the paper is late, the final grade for the work will decrease by one letter. Timeliness and personal responsibility is critical to succeeding in college-level coursework.

Absences:

You are allowed THREE unexcused absences. Any subsequent unexcused absences after three will result in one whole grade deduction PER ABSENCE. Only in extreme circumstances will an absence be excused (court-mandated appearance, mandatory sports or TTU-related function, or extended illness). With documentation, your absence may be excused and will not count against your three “free” absences. Please note that a hangover, headache, or a cold does not qualify as an “extended illness.” After TWO doctor’s notes, you will have used up your excused absences. You cannot succeed in this class if you are absent. After six unexcused absences, you automatically fail this class.

Unless you have made previous arrangements with me, your assignments are due on their scheduled dates regardless of your absences.

If you are in-class, but not present (i.e., on your phone, sleeping, passing notes, messaging on your laptop, listening to music, etc.), you will be considered absent. Physically being in-class does not warrant participation or attendance.

Two tardies (10 or more minutes late for class) will constitute one unexcused absence. If you are running from a class somewhere else on campus and anticipate being a few minutes late, you must notify me prior to class with evidence of the need to arrive late.

Technology Use in the Classroom:

Students must obtain permission from me PRIOR to class before using laptops. Texting during class is strictly prohibited. If you are caught texting, I will give you a verbal warning. Any subsequent time you are caught texting, I will simply mark you absent. Headphones and earbuds are strictly prohibited. If you are expecting a call you that must take due to an emergency, please notify me before class and take the phone call outside.

Student Conduct:

The readings we will encounter in this class may be socially, morally, or emotionally challenging for some. You do not have to agree with, or even like, all the texts, but you do have to be able to read and discuss them critically and sympathetically. Please be respectful of other students and your instructor. This classroom will be a safe place for all of us, regardless of our race, ethnicity, age, religion, social class, gender identity, or sexual preference. Please bring any breach of this standard to my attention immediately. Use common sense and be empathetic of others. If you engage in any distracting or delinquent behavior during class, you will be asked to leave and will be counted absent. If such behavior continues, you will be dropped from the course.

Scholastic Dishonesty:

“Scholastic dishonesty’ includes, but is not limited to, cheating, plagiarism, collusion, falsifying academic records, misrepresenting facts, and any act designed to give unfair academic advantage to the student (such as, but not limited to, submission of essentially the same written assignment for two courses without the prior permission of the instructor) or the attempt to commit such an act.” It will not be tolerated and may result in the failure of the assignment, at the least, and possible course failure. Additionally, offending students may be referred to Student Judicial Programs. Bottom line: Plagiarism is easy to spot. Don’t do it.

Examples of plagiarism include (but are not limited to):

Outright plagiarism: using someone else’s entire paper as your own;

Ghostwriting: having someone else write your paper for you;

Cut and paste: taking sections from another paper and/or website and including it in your own work; and

Insufficient Citation: failing to cite information obtained from other sources and/or your research.

Writing Assistance:

Students looking for extra assistance during this course should contact the Writing Center, located in Eng/Phil 175. Students can meet with writing tutors to discuss ideas and arguments in texts; the center is not a “fix-it” shop set up to correct errors in grammar and mechanics, although they will assist you with questions regarding any issues. You will need to make an appointment in person, online (<http://uwc.ttu.edu>) or by phone (806-742-2476) and with plenty of time before your due date. Appointments fill up fast, so think ahead!

Americans with Disabilities Act:

“Any student who, because of a disability, may require special arrangements in order to meet the course requirements should contact the instructor as soon as possible to make any necessary arrangements. Students should present appropriate verification from Student Disability Services during the instructor’s office hours. Please note instructors are not allowed to provide classroom accommodations to a student until appropriate verification from Student Disability Services has been provided. [...] Contact Student Disability Services in 335 West Hall or (806) 742-2405.”

TTU Resources for Discrimination, Harassment, and Sexual Violence:

Texas Tech University is committed to providing and strengthening an educational, working, and living environment where students, faculty, staff, and visitors are free from gender and/or sex discrimination of any kind. Sexual assault, discrimination, harassment, and other Title IX violations are not tolerated by the University. Report any incidents to the Office for Student
